The bureau has of late become cramped for space and wants the rooms occupied by the commission.

A short time ago Commissioner Coleman noti-fied the board that they would have to move which he desired in their quarters, so as to fit them for the use of his bureaus. Under the law the secretary of the interior is directed to assign or provide quarters for the civil service commissioners and their employes. Secretary

Lamar having been informed of the notice which Commissioner Coleman had served upon the civil service board, rented for their use the house on H street, formerly occupied by the Chinese legation, at an annual rent of $2,400.

That house is now under the control of the commission, but so far Mr. Randall and Mr.

Holman have refused to make provision for the payment of the rent. They are not actuated in their refusal by any hostility to the civil service commission, but by a desire to reduce the amount paid annually by the government in renting houses for the use of the govern-ment. The idea of Mr. Randall and of Mr.

Holman is to make an addition to the pension

His Bad Health Prompts the Act—The Correspondence.

WASHINGTON. June 4.—The following correspondence is made public this evening.

WASHINGTON, May 20.—My dear sir: I have decided to place in your hands my resignation of the office which you did me the honor to ask me to accept lifteen months ago.

My reasons for this decision are both public and personal. Since the partial recovery of my health has permitted me to reflect upon the demands of the public service, to which I had given iperhaps too freely all my strength: and upon conditions resuming my labors at your side, I have not for a moment questioned what must be my present duty.

The full recovery of my health is pronounced to duty.

The full recovery of my health is pronounced to be an affair of weeks, and a longer period of rest, especially during the hot months, is prescribed, or at least advised, as a prudent requirement thereafter. Compliance with this advice would not be practicable were It or resume now the general direction of the treasury department, even if abating something of the energy which it seemed needful to expend in the first year of my work. Supervision at a distance would be more hindrance than help to the acting secretary. But it is not befitting that a department of the government, so difficult and so important, should be administered by a convalescent studious of parrying its daily exactions, nor that the watchful control of its enormous influence or the direction of its fiscal policies, even under your wise lead, should be attempted by any one concerned about husbanding his strength.

The reforms in our fiscal policy, which you have maintained, and which have been framed and commended to the wisdom of the legislative branch, are reforms necessary to our safety, binding in honor, obligatory in the traditions of democracy, and set down with promises in our statute book. Our present tariff laws are a needless oppression instead of an easy burden. Our currency is a chaos into which we pour from forced purchases of one of the precious metals mechanical increment, under the coinage law, so illjudged and untimely that it hinders the opening of our mints to the natural and unlimited coinage of both metals, and the free expanion of our gold and silver coin along with the growing needs of a nighty people.

All our needful customs revenue might be col-

Mr. Dawes and Senator Morgan submitted the report of committee on Indian affairs on its investigations of the condition of the Indians in the Indian territory and other reservations, as directed by legislation of June 11, December 3, 1884, and February 23, 1885. The report is very long. The principle subjects investigated by the committee are the present industrial, social, moral and political condition of the five civilized tribes. Incidentally other smaller tribes not so advanced in civilization received the attention of the committee. The leading and more important facts touch the claims of the Creeks and Seminoles in Oklahoma and the pretenses of the right of entry upon these lands by bands of colonists who claim that they were open to settlement as part of the public domain, are set forth in evidence submitted with the report. To the president.

Executive Mansion, Washington, June 1.—My Dear Mr. Manning: I have received your letter in which your resignation is tendered as secretary of the treasury. The sentiments therein contained are entirely in keeping with the devotion to public duty and loyalty to the interests of the government which have characterized your relations to the present administration. I am not surprised, though much impressed, by the concern which you evince for the correction of abuses and the inauguration of reforms to which in your letter you slinde, and which have been so often topics of our anxious conversation. I have hoped that the day was at hand when the party to which we belong, influenced largely by faith and confidence in you and in the wisdom of your views, would be quickened in the sense of responsibility and led to more harmonious action upon the important questions with which you have had to deal.

In considering your proposed resignation, I

In considering your proposed resignation, I should be strongly inclined, by my personal regard and friendship and by the value of your services to the country, to beg you to at once and entirely abandon your inclination to refinquish your part of the arduous duty, but I am convinced that I should not do this and that in all I suggest and ask I should have much at heart your welfare and safety.

You have placed your resignation in my hands. My responsibility here begins, and I know that recreatefully my 10 howest and the writes of the second safety.

You have placed your resignation in my hands. My responsibility here begins, and I know that responsibility will be met and the wishes of the people of the land fully answered, when I ask you to postpone for a while any instance upon the acceptance of your resignation, and that your final conclusion thereon may be delayed until the effects of continued rest and freedom from official duties upon your condition may be better tested, I therefore earniestly request you to accept leave of absence until the first day of October next, when, if you desire it, the question of your resignation may be resumed with, perhaps, a better means of judging all the facts and probabilities which should be considered in its determination.

an the lacts and propositions which should be considered in its determination.

Hoping that you will consent to this suggestion, and trusting that your encouraging progress toward restoration to health may continue, I am faithfully your friend, GROVER CLEVELAND. Hon. Daniel Manning, secretary of the treasury.

THE PRESIDENT'S HONEYMOON. Cards Announcing the Marriage Sent Out-

The Cottage Besieged by Reporters. WASHINGTON, June 4,-About a thousand ards announcing the marriage of the president were sent out from the white house to-day by mail, messengers and otherwise. The cards are exceedingly simple and plain, engraved in heavy lines on full sheet of fine note paper. They read as follows:

Mr. Grover Cleveland and Miss Frances Folsom were married on Wednesday, June second, eighteen hundred and eighty-six. Executive mansion, Washington.

These announcements were sent to mem court, senators and representatives in congress, the diplomatic corps, the lieutenant general of the army, admiral of the navy and other officials in Washington and to personal friends of the president and Mrs. Cleveland in Albany and Buffalo. REPORTERS BESIEGING THE COTTAGE.

PITTSBUEG, June 4.-The Chronicle-Tele-graph's Deer Park special says the cottage up graph's Deer Park special says the cottage up in the grove back of the hotel, in which the president and his bride are spending their honeymoon, is in a state of siege. An army of newspaper men are entrenched in the Baltimore and Ohio depot, 200 yards from the cottage and in full view of it. An army of Baltimore and Ohio detectives are seated on benches and tree stumps within 100 yards of the cottage, and thus far only one person has succeeded in getting to the cottage, that being ex Senator Henry Davis. Mr. and Mrs. Cleveland remained in the cottage most of the ex senator Henry Davis. Mr. and Mrs. Cleveland remained in the cottage most of the morning. Mrs. Cleveland appeared on the porch about ten o'clock and sat there reading papers, the mail being taken from the postofice for the first time this morning by the president. Mrs. Cleveland seemed amused and interested at the cordon of news gatherers and detectives around her. The president came out for a few minutes after his bride retired and did not appear to notice what was going on about him. few minutes after his bride retired and did not appear to notice what was going on about him. At one o'clock Mr. and Mrs. Cleveland walked over to Senator Davis's cottage for lunch. No one ventured to intrude on the pair as they walked slowly over the half mile of tanbark walk between the houses. Senator Davis and his wife were the only companions of the president and Mrs. Cleveland at lunch, and about 2 o'clock the senator's boy team and president and Mrs. Cleveland at lunch, and about 2 o'clock the senstor's bay team and double seated drag conveyed the party up the bread road to Oakland. They turned at the edge of town and came back. The only incident which has occurred to show any attempt at courtesy was the sending of a handsome basket of trout to the president by Dr. McCanas, of Oakland, who in return was cordially thanked by the president.

HOW THE DAY WAS PASSED.

The president and his wife are enjoying their fteedom and seclusion here. They spent a greater part of the day in the open air, either greater part of the day in the open air, either walking or driving in company with ex-Senator Davis. As an evidence of the unostentatious manner in which they are living here, it may be stated that Mr. and Mrs. Davis only arrived here last night and intended psying their visit of congratulation this morning after breakfast, if it should be agreeable to Mrs. Cleveland, To their surprise, before breakfast this morning, the president and his bride were seen wending their way up to the sawdust walk leading to the Davis cottage. They had thrown aside all ceremony in the matter and instead of waiting for the usual first call had paid a visit themselves. This relieved the ex-senator of an embarrassment that he might have felt in the matter of calling on the newly married couple. The president today expressed himself very well pleased with the freedom from annoyance which the representatives of the press here have so far permitted him to enjoy. A box of rare cut flowers was received here today by express from Cincinnati. Colonel Lamont is expected to arrive tomorrow night. It was stated today that the press Colonel Lamont is expected to arrive tomor-row night. It was stated today that the pres-ident's visit might extend beyond the week originally determined on. Mr. and Mrs. Davis called on the president and his wife tonight and the evening was spent in conversation.

Soon after the visitors left the lights in the president's cottag were put out.

WINCHESTER, Va., June 4.-Wes Honesty and Tably Banks, negroes, were hanged at 9:22 O'clock this morning, for the murder of Joseph McFaul on the night of November 14, 1884. Religious services in the jail were conducted by Rev. J. P. Hyde Koontz and Fxhorter E. J. Evans and Rev. Whitmore. Captain Denton, of the salvation army, was also present. They lasted about an hour, and the sacrament was administered. The criminals then marched with the officials and ministers. They stepped up firmly ten steps to the floor of the scaffold. Banks began to tremble violently, but Honesty stood firm on the trap door. Mr. Moody's hymn, "There is Light in the Valley," was then sung by request, both joining in loudly. The ministers returned to the jail steps. Honesty said:

"I thank God I am converted, and I am going home to heaven. No man's blood rests on my soul. I have not to answer for it. I thank all the officers and ministers for their kind-

"I am not guilty of what is put on me. I want to meet all my friends in heaven." Their arms were then pinioned, the black ap drawn over their heads and in a loud voice both cried out:

As several of the strikers had been enjoined from interfering in any way with the working of the mills, the removal of these cars was prevented in a peculiar way. Ten o'clock was the hour when the engines were expected up from south Chicago, and before that hour women and children to the number of two hundred, wives and families of former employes, assembled with sticks in their hands, around the terminus of the railroad tracks and opposite to the entrance to the nail works. Females were sent down the track towards South Chicago to appprise the party of the engine's approach. While these were keeping guard, a contingent was dispatched to the residence of Tom Bethel, while these were keeping guard, a contingent was dispatched to the residence of Tom Bethel, a non-union man, who was moving to Colehour for safety. Mrs. Bethel was alone superintending the packing of household goods when she was startled by the beating of in pans and wild hoots and yells. Several windows were smashed by boulders, and she was berated roundly by the women and children until the police dispersed the party. They returned to the depot, and at the same time one of the pickets came running breathlessly along the track, waving her shawl and shouting "to the ears!" This was signaling the approach of the engine. Then there was a rush to where the loaded cars were standing.

LONDON, June 4.-Mr. Gladstone, replying Thomas Henry Bolton, liberal member for north St. Paul, in the house of commons this vening, said :

evening, said:

"I hold it to be indisputable, indeed elementary, that the voting of a second reading of the homerule bill affirms only the principle of the establishment of an Irish legislative body to transact business concerning purely Irish as distinct from imperial affairs. The government consider and hold themselves free to accept any proposals which may be submitted to them previous to the autumn session consistent with live more conditions which they consider essential to the solution of the question, including Irish representatives at Westminster to take part in the discussion and settlement of imperial business. The government are not only at libercy but are in duty bound to consider any such amendments."

This statement, it was thought in the lobbies of the house of commons tonight, would cause number waverers to decide to vote for the bill and possibly secure its second reading.

There is a bill in the excitement of the house of commons, but attempts to influence the dissenters continue to be made. The Gladstonians says that Mr. Gladstone has prepared for Monday a statement which, if it will not influence Mr. Chamberlain, will detach many of his supporters. The whips declare that the strength of dissenters is the same as it was at the beginning of the week. It is rumored that an attempt will be made to shelve the bill by moving an adjournment bill by moving an adjournment in order to avert the defeat of the government. Endless devices are being discussed to bring the matter to an amicable conclusion. The government relies chiefly upon this desire for reconciliation. Both parties are preparing night and day for an electoral struggle. The conservatives and liberal unionists have agreed to interchange support where the home rulers threaten seats. A strong joint effort will be made in Scotland to capture the seats of the joint supporters. It is expected that the division will take place at 20 clock Tuesday morning. Mr. Parnell and Sir Michael Hicks-Beach will speak before Mr. Gladstone makes his closing argument. ATHENS, Ga., June 4.—[Special.]—Emanuel Cooper, an old negro man living on Mr. Young's plantation, came into Athens yesterday to get a physician to dress his wounds received in a cutting scrape at a little church on the plantation. Emanuel was the out-door mederator of the church. Several turbulent characters were making a fuss outside, and he asked them to keep quiet. One of the negroes told him he would give him a whipping, and put his hand in his pocket as if to draw a pis-tol. Emanuel caught him by the arm, and the negro stabbed him four times in the back, and cut a severe gash across the fleshy part of ment Season.

Rome, Ga., June 4.—[Special.]—Shorter college chapel was well filled tonight by the elite of the city to hear the address delivered before the literary societies of the college by the Hon. Seaborn Wright. Mr. Wright's subject was "Social Problems," and he handled it in a masterly manner, holding the attention of the audience throughout.

The speaker discussed the men of the day, and first paid his respects to the dude, or "the

and first paid his respects to the dude, or "the man of cloth." "Tried by the standard of necfulness, what right have they to live?" The "masher" is not a product of this age, but omes down to us from antiquity, only slightly modified. The great events in a dude's life are the german, the plenic and the advent of a new girl in the community.

Next came the sentimental man, who wears his hair long, cares not for fashion, and de-lights in poetry. But both these classes of men are harmless when compared with that men are harmless when compared with that strange product of our modern civilization, the agnostic. This class is bred in our colleges and universities, whither they are sent by doting parents to study law, medicine and science. They go, simple honest boys, believing in man's nobility and God's glory; they return, believing only in their own perfection, chattering glibly of old superstitions, placing the works of Darwin above the divine revelation. These men graces above the divine revelation. These men sneer at the dude, but they, too, are the slaves of at the dude, but they, too, are the slaves of fashion. Their ideas are cut to fit the last theory of evolution or the latest development of agnosticism. We are amazed at the great of agnosticism. We are amazed at the great learning of these men, yet they assure us they know nothing.

We know that this world of ours is a world of life, and not of death; the birds sing, the flowers bloom; the stars shine in glory above us, and we feel, we know, "the hand that made them is divine." But this agnostic, wisely shaking his head, exclaims, "I don't know;"

I don't know!" I don't know!! The speaker said that in a social life, also, the law of supply and demand prevails. If there were no foolish girls the dude would scon vanish. If there were not women who admired his supposed smartness, the agnostic would never be heard from again. Not that women are entirely responsible for man's actions but these now are westly. tions, but these men are what they are partly because there is a demand for them.

We are living in an age, when, under the inspiration of a broad, liberal and religious spirit, humanity is being exalted, dignified, ennobled. Men are demanding the truth. It is a grand thing to be a man; conscious of the possibilities of life, imbued with the spirit of truth stranging heavely ownerd in the nath. the possibilities of life, imbued with the spirit of truth, struggling bravely onward in the path of truth, struggling bravely onward in the pass of duty.

The speaker, in conclusion, exhorted the young ladies to have an exalted ideal of man-hood. "Let your ideal be a man, gentle and tender, yet strong; strong in intellect, strong in moral courage, strong in purity, and crown-ed with a loving and noble spirit."

Dawson, Ga., June 4.—[Special.]—Terrell superior court continues in session, and has been engaged this week in trying civil cases. A large part of two days was occupied in the trial of the case of Colonel J. Madison Jones, of Macon, against Samuel A. Grier, deceased, and which is an effort to subject several plantations in this county to a debt sued to judgment in 1863. The lands are claimed by other parties now, and the litigation growing out of the effort to sell these lands has been and will continue to be protracted and determined. proud of. The town was named in honor of CAPTAIN FERG KYLE, one of our oldest and most highly honored citizens, who was among the first to cross the Mississippi under the stars and bars, and among the last to sheathe his sword and turn this face toward the boundless prairies, which he claimed as his home. The country around Kyle is well adapted to agriculture, and as a cattle country it cannot be excelled anywhere in the state. The old Austin and San Antonio stage read runs near the town, and two miles west the courses its way through chifs and woodlands, and over levely prairies in its journey to the sea. There are many beautiful Indian legends connected with this river which tradition has handed down from ages, while the old tradi-tional Spanish mines that were once supposed to have furnished silver in vast quantities to the ancient Aztec chieftains, have been the theme and dream of many and many a for-tune seeker of the present day, who is lured from afar only to find that the hope he fol-lowed was nothing more than some will o'the-wisp. That lowed was nothing more than some will-o'thewisp. That in this region at one time there is every reason to believe, as traces of mining can be found in more than one place on the banks of the river, and specimens of fine ore are now and then picked up by the prospector. No one has as yet been able to locate the lead, or leads, however, and after all these mines may have existed more in fancy than in reality.

SILVER DID EXIST

On this subject I will speak again in the near future, and for the present I will delve a moment into the politics of the state. The central and most imposing figure in our political world today is

GOVERNOR JOHN IRELAND,
a man who rose from the son of a poor but honest Kentucky farmer to be twice elected governor of the grandest and proudest state in the federal union. His nomination by numerous and direful emergencies that have arisen in the last four years in this state is a fact that all true Texans will concede, and one that future historians will feel proud to record. The home of Governor Ireland is in Seguin, a pretty little city some twenty-five miles southeast of Kyle, and is a plain, unostentations building, surrounded by a pretty yard that borders on the rippling Guadalupe river. The governor is now a candidate for the United States senate to supersede General Sam Bell Maxey, and the chances for his "election are now assured unless some wonderful tidal wave sweeps over the country by the time the next legislature convents. As governor of Texas, he is a man who preserves his dignity without being stiff or cold, while at home, he treats his visitors with a hospitality that is genuinely southern and not soen to be forgotten. He is a deep thinker, acts with precision and judgment, and when his presence is required, no threatening danger can deter him for a moment or cause him to turn from the course he believes to be right.

James J. Mitchell, Superintendent Stone Department New Capitol at Albany, N. Y., writes: "315 Lark Street, June 25, 1835. I have been using Allcock's Porous Plasters on my own person and in my family for the last thirty years. I deem it a matter of duty to bear public testimony to their exceeding usefulness as an external remedy. Placed upon the pit of the stomach, they warm and tone the digestive organs. On the small of the back, they give vigor to the nervous system, and act as a wonderful diuretic. I think in all cases of dyspepsia they should be worn both on the back and on the pit of the stomach. In this way they act as a stimulus to the whole system."

Mr. J. C. Riley has not been confirmed as post-master at Cincinnati. It would have been money in Mr. Riley's trousers pockets, we think, if he had been born a Louisville widow.—Chicago News.

Do you want a pure, blooming Complexion? If so, a few applications of Hagan's MAGNOLIA BALM will gratify you to your heart's content. It does away with Sallowness, Redness, Pimples, Blotches, and all diseases and imperfections of the skin. It overcomes the flushed appearance of heat, fatigne and exauco of heat, fatigue and excitement. It makes a lady of THIRTY appear but TWEN-TY; and so natural, gradual, and perfect are its effects, that it is impossible to detect its application.

A TPENTION LIQUOR DEALERS—VALUABLE A property for sale. The well known restaurant and saloon in the flourishing city of Brunswick, Ga. keep by F. Joseph Doerdinger for a long time. Ga. keep by F. Joseph Doerdinger for a long time, is now offered for sale with or without stock and fitures. The trade of this establishment is and always has been first-class, and the restaurant has apity been styled the "Delimonico of the South." Brunswick has doubled its population within the last three years and is continually increasing, with no chance of being in a dry county. No better opportunity was ever before offered for a live person to make a fortune, as this property pays well. The lot fronts on Bay street, opposite the shipping wharves, railroad passenger and freight depots, and is 80 feet front, running back 189 feet to Oglethorpe street. The improvements consist of a two-story frame building with six rooms and shell, four rooms on upper floor used as lodging for commercial agents, etc., two large rooms on first floor, well lathed and plastered and walls painted in oil colors. The eli contains the dining and catering rooms, also done in oil, with a kitchen and large range attached. All rooms supplied with water and gas. On the rear end of lot facing the street is a small building suitable for most any purpose. This property can be had at a bargain, as other business demands the attention of the proprietor. A NOVEL scene for America was enacted in Cummings, Ill., yesterday. Two hundred women and children, families of strikers, stood on the railroad track to prevent trains being run by fresh men.

MR. BLAINE is severely criticised by the English press for his utterances at the Portland home rule meeting. Lord Salisbury took occasion in the house of lords to refer to the great American candidate.

SECRETARY MANNING has tendered his resignation to the president, who, instead of accepting it, advises him to take a leave of absence to recuperate his health. After that is done, then the resignation might be con-

COLONEL LAMONT was very shrewd in his little strategy to outwit the reporters on the night of the president's wedding; but the cottage at Deer Park is surrounded by newsgathers. The depot is crowded with representatives of the press and every stump within half a mile of the dwelling of the bidal couple holds a reporter with his scratch-book and pencil.

Dr. Felton's Speech.

Dr. Felton spoke last night to about six hundred people, of whom four-fifths were Gordon men. It was nominally a speech for Major Bacon. It was really a speech for Dr. Felton. Half of the speech was about Dr. Felton-the other half was about General Gordon. There was not enough Bacon in it to grease the speaker's lips. The friends of Bacon must have felt funny when they saw how little their speaker had to say about their candidate.

A stranger to have heard the speech last night would have thought that Gordon and Felton were engaged in a terrific contest for the governorship, and that Major Bacon was a sort of last year's bird-nest. Indeed, it begins to look that way to those who are not strangers.

The Richmond Mass Meeting.

Mr. Pat Walsh delivered Richmond coun ty to Major Bacon on yesterday. About two hundred Gordon men entered protest against the cut and dried programme, while the great body of the voters remained away.

It is surprising that even so many Gordon men went out to vote in a meeting in which they knew they had no chance to get a verdict. When Mr. Walsh decided that Richmond county should hold a mass meeting, instead of a primary election, that moment the county was scored for Major Bacon, and no hopes have been entertained since ther that General Gordon could make a serious impression on it. He is grateful to his friends who made protest in his name against the method employed to carry Richmond against him.

Cupid's Capers.

Old as he is, the president appears to be very much like a boy when it comes to marrying and honeymooning. It is said that when he took his customary ride the day of the wedding he was pale and nervous, and the announcement has been made by some of the statesmen who were present that he was very much embarrassed during the ceremony.

This is the history of proud man the world over. Marriage is a sweet serious affair, and the man, young or old, who has been struck between the under jaw and the brisket with one of cupid's darts is bound to turn pale at times and dribble at the mouth. We are glad to learn that our amiable president was no exception to the rule. Bold of mind and big of girth as he is, it is to his credit that he turned pale and shivered a little when he stood up to be blessed with the hand of the woman of his choice.

It is to be feared, however, that in th confusion which followed the ceremony, our democratic president forgot, for the moment his democracy. He made a tremendous and successful effort to avoid the esteemed reporters. There is no doubt that he was led in this matter by the ubiquitous and fastidious Daniel Lamont. Daniel was of the opinion that it wouldn't be quite the style for the bridegroom tobrush up against the dusty reporters. The bridegroom probably though nothing of style, but he was bashful. Had he consented to meet the reporters he would have blushed painfully. Thus it was that he permitted Daniel to ambuscade the news paper men with three carriages and thus lead them astray.

The whole country has congratulated the president and his charming wife; but the reporters will make things warm for Daniel one of these days.

The Real Test.

Dr. Felton, in his Montezuma speech, says that Mr. Bacon has declared himself to be in favor of the railroad commission law as it stands. We have never seen any such declaration from Mr. Bacon. On the contrary, it is a matter of record that when he was brought face to face with the issue in Sparta, his evasion of it was so unmistakable that Editor Sidney Lewis, who was prepared to support him, concluded to support General Gordon instead.

We repeat, we have never seen any declarm Mr. Bacon to the effect that he is in favor of the commission law as it stands, and that he is opposed to its modification. It is possible, however, that he has made such a declaration. He can make such a statement in good faith, and yet be prepared to cripple the commission by appointing on the board who are in sympathy with the railroads rather than with the peop It must be plain to every man that if the railroads can get control of the commission by the appointment of men who take the corporation view of things, they will be perfectly indifferent as to the modification of the law. If the commissioners are in sympathy with the railroads rather than with the people, their rulings and their decisions will be perfectly satisfactory to the corporations and there will be no necessity for any modification of the law.

It is very important, therefore, that the people to whom Mr. Bacon is appealing for support, should knew his position in this matter. Dr. Felton says he is satisfied with it, but Dr. Felton, in his day and time, has been satisfied with a great many things that the democratic people of the state could not stomach. The doctor's satisfaction on this and other questions should be taken with a large lump of salt.

The real point, so far as the commission interest is concerned, is this: Will Mr. Bacon, in the remote contingency of his election, pledge himself, in filling such vacancies on the commission as may occur in due course or providentially, to appoint men who will construe the law in the interest of the people rather than in the interest of the railroads. Judging from his evasions at Sparta, Mr. Bacon will make no such pledge.

Dr. Milburn on the Devil. Dr. Milburn, the blind chaplain of the house of representatives, is quite successful in shocking Washington society. A few nights ago his description of the loves of Goethe caused cold chills to run down the decollete backs of the married belles and maidens. This was bad enough, but the doctor was not satisfied. He got his battery in readiness for another shock, and last Sunday he devoted a portion of his sermon to a description of the devil.

According to Dr. Milburn it is barbarous nonsense to represent the devil as a personage with hoofs, horns, tail and pitchfork. That was the medaeival devil. The devil of today is a polished gentleman in appearance. He has been in London, Paris, New York, Washington and San Francisco. He knows the world, and knows human nature. He moves in the best society and is much admired. He dresses in faultless taste. much for his general description. But the doctor goes into particulars. He says:

His cold gray eye looks steadily at you and tas-cinates you perhaps. He has thin, delicate lips and fine nostrils that are easily curved in scorn. One great feature of the modern devil is that he never becomes enthusiastic over anything. may show him the most beautiful sunset or natural view, the most rare and valuable painting or piece of statuary, and with his cold gray eye he will look steadily at it and make some disparaging remark. You cannot point out a man or a woman that he will not disparage. He is a cynic, a Mephistophiles. He enters your drawing-rooms and your churches. He causes trouble and dissension everywhere. He disparages the brethren.

Now this is pretty hard on men with cold gray eyes, thin delicate lips and fine nostrils It is rough, too, on the critics and men who know human nature. We are not surprised to learn that some very estimable society people seriously object to Dr. Milburn's portraiture of the devil. Perhaps such fancy sketches are in doubtful taste. Fortunately people who desire fuller information on the subject are not compelled to go to Dr. Milburn nor to the devil.

"Sullen and Grumpy."

The disgrace of Simon Tappertit is eclipsed by the ignominy of Herr John Most's down

We are told by the New York papers that the blatant dynamiter and anarchist was sul len and grumpy over his sentence. On his way to the penitentiary his extreme ugliness was apparent to even his friends. His face was white and his eves and mouth twitched.

At the prison Most answered the questions in a voice so low and husky that his fellow convicts were ashamed of him. He gave his occupation as journalism and claimed to be forty years old. After the barber had relieved him of his beard he looked worse than ever. In the graphic language of an attendant, he resembled "a singed cat."

It was noticed that the left side of Most's lower jaw was entirely caved in, and some of his chin was gone. He explained this by saving that a mule had kicked him. Getting into his convict stripes he shivered with fright. A hopeless, forlorn look came upon his face, and his eyes fell before the gaze of the by-standers. The other two anarchists looked upon their chief with amazement and disgust. Most was led off whimpering to the blacksmith shop where he will be made to put the first honest work of his life.

Anarchists and other outlaws may learn a lesson, if they will, from the fate of this cowardly ruffian. His punishment and abject degradation, or something worse, will inevitably befall all who tread in his foot steps. The American people are in no mood to be trifled with.

A Question for the Doctors.

Speaking of the prevalence of so-called typhoid fever, the Chicago News rises to ask for information. If, as claimed by the sanitarians, the disease is as communicable as smallpox or measles, why does it not develop into an epidemic? If the disease is easily prevented by simple methods of disintection why is not this precaution rigidly and uniformly resorted to?

It is suggested that the disease known in many parts of the country as typhoid fever s not the disease the sanitarians know by that pame. The New York Medical Record takes this view. It says: "Statistics regarding typhoid fever are almost always seriously vitiated by doubts as to diagnosis."

What, then, is typhoid fever? Perhaps the recent discovery of the typhoid germ in the blood may be properly utilized so as to throw some light upon the subject. Light is needed. If the disease supposed to be ty-phoid fever is something else, let the doctors give it a name, and tell us something about Delicate But Deadly.

It is generally necessary to name a man when any ordinary attack is made upon him in the shape of censure or criticism, but when the attacking party has a murderous intent, and is satisfied with nothing short of the complete annihilation of his enemy, he may put in his deadly work without regard to formalities. Senator Benton thoroughly understood this method of warfare. When he was told that he was to figure very largely in a little book to be written by Senato Foote, he paralyzed his opponent by promis ing to write a big book in which Foote should not figure at all, and he kept his

Precisely on this line is a recent onslaught of the New York Sun upon Mesars. Howells, James and Cable. The Sun does not mention the names of these eminent literary lights; it simply says a word or two in com mendation of Bret Harte's latest story, bat between the lines may be read a sweeping indictment of our Miss Nancy novelists. Speaking of Mr. Harte, our contemporary

It will be observed by those who are solicitou about the present tendencies of American fiction, as manifested in the work of a school which is just as mannessed in the world a second which is de-now somewhat prolific, that here is a distinguished American novelist who has imagination, and is not afraid to use it; who allows his people to de-velop their own characters by their own acts and words; who doesn't travel through miles of explanation, criticism and analysis in order to schieve inches of narrative move achieve inches of narrative movement; who doesn't mount the platform, like the man with a long stick at the panorams, and bore the audience to death; who had rather use one word than forty. if he has the right word handy; and who had ather stop short than become tedious.

What in the name of common sense is the use in subjecting the people of fiction, primarily means for our entertainment, to a process of psychologi-cal analysis more rigid and minute than we dream of applying to real people whom we know and like or hate our whole lives long?

It would be impossible to pack into the same number of lines more gall and bitterness. To Howells, James and Cable such a criticism is like a shower of vitriol. It is merciless, and yet not brutal. The refinement exhibited in the mode of torture makes us enjoy in advance the agony of the victims. It may be cruel, but critics are like surgeons; they have to be cruel at times in order to do good.

A Crooked View.

The northern Baptists are in a state of mind over the developments in the case of John H. Deane, of New York. Mr. Deane was a wealthy man, and a strong Baptist He was very liberal, and during the past few years gave his denomination in one way and another over half a million dollars.

Naturally such a man was trusted. The financial interests of the American Baptist Home Mission society were committed to his hands for investment. About two years ago Mr. Deane failed in business, and it turned out that he had invested the trust funds of his denomination for his own benefit, and the missionary society was a loser to the tune of something over a hundred thousand dollars. At the recent meeting of the society at Asbury park, the matter was fully discussed. It is almost incredible, but some of the ministers present did not appear to see Deane's moral guilt. They claimed that his great liberality to the church should be considered as an offset to his defalcation. After several speeches on this line a lay delegate rose and protested. He called upon the parsons to draw the line between the gospel of Jesus and the gospel of gush. He called the defalcation by its right name, and argued that a bankrupt to the extent of half a million, who was now spending $15,000 a year, was not entitled to leniency.

The layman had the best of it. The preachers saw that their view of the business was about as crooked as Deane's methods, and they were glad to abandon it. The society then took such action as will place the de faulter where he belongs; and instead of holding him up as a man deserving of sympathy and confidence, he will be dealt with from the standpoint of justice and law. It is well enough to let criminals know that they cannot balance off their good deeds against their crimes. When a good man goes wrong he must suffer the penalty.

THE people of Buenos Ayres, away down in Argentina, are on a regular literary craze. Mr. C. H. Fowler, writing from Buenos Ayres to the Chicago News, says the city has 400,000 population, and supports the astonishing number of twenty-five daily papers. There are eighty-two papers in the city, and nearly every man you meet has written a book or at least a pamphlet. There are seventeen Spanish dailies. There are three Italian dailies, two English, two French and one German. There are 535 lawyers and nearly three hundred physicians in the city. There are one hundred and seventy public schools attended by 28,000 pu pils, and one hundred and eighteen private schools attended by 13,000 pupils. In that country the "yankee school marm" is in her glory. She is welcomed by all the people and her lines are cast in pleasant places. Mr. Fowler speaks with enthusiasm of the future of Buenos Ayres. He says the city has the natural advantages of Boston New York, Philadelphia, Baltimore and Charleston combined. It is the only door way into south temperate America. It has flowing by its wharves 8,000 miles of navigable water, which comes from all quarters of the great block of rich and all-producing soil extending from the brink of the Amazon basin to Cape Horn, a block exceeded in fertility and size only by China.

THE Bacon organs appear to be very indignant because THE CONSTITUTION has announce ed that General Gordon proposes to meet the people face to face wherever he has an opportunity. What is the objection to this programme? Are the people imbeciles that they are not capable of carrying out their intentions and desires after General Gordon has addressed them? Statesman Walsh should call a halt in his office.

STATESMAN WALSH appears to have a very poor opinion of the people of Georgia. He affects to believe that they cannot carry out their own purposes and desires after General Gordon has addressed them. Statesman Walsh appears to be putting himself on record in a very unhappy way.

BECAUSE General Gordon made a speech in Haralson county on the day the convention was held, the Augusta Chronicle maintains the people could not carry out their intention of electing Bacon delegates. Oh, bosh!

SEVERAL days ago THE CONSTITUTION published an account of the strange actions of Dr. Hazen, of Sharpsville, Penn., and of his "daughter," both of whom were pronounced insane from the cocaine habit. It is now stated that the woman was not Dr. Hazen's daughter. He had a practice which paid $25 or $30 pcr day and lived happily with his family until be became infatuated with the alleged daughter and ran away with her. The woman's name is Maggie McDonald. The arms of the doctor and his companion showed extensive use of the cocaine syringe. The doctor would thrust the hypodermic pringe containing the drug promiscuously into his and the woman's flesh through the clothing. They were a wretched couple to behold. Both showed deranged inds, and their looks were ghastly. Their condition, when in want of the drug or when over stimulated with it, resembled that of one with delirium tremens, only more terrible. Complaint was made against the doctor, and he, with the woman, had a hearing before a instice. In default of bail the doctor was committed to the county jail at Wellsborough, and the woman was taken to the almshouse. During the night the sheriff says the delirium of the doctor was awful, and it was feared would not live till morning.

ABOUT a year ago Ronald Fisher, a proous merchant in Sioux City, Iowa, saw in a matrimonial journal an advertisement inserted by Helen Wentworth, of Philadelphia, "a londe, under thirty," who wanted to marry. A correspondence followed, and later on they agreed to become one flesh. The pair met in Cincinnati Wednesday, and lo, and behold, found they had been personally acquainted. In fact they had been husband and wife, but had lived unhappily together and had been divorced. The programme was not changed when they recognized each other in Cincinnati, but in spite of past disagreements they went ahead and were married again, STATESMAN WALSH says that Richmond county "occupies a pivotal position in this campaign." If this is true, the Bacon men should have declared early in the campaign for primary elections. Packed meetings are not healthy for pivotal counties.

THE Bacon organs are reeking with dirty slanders of General Gordon. The people know how to deal with this sort of business. They have dealt with it before.

STATESMAN WALSH declares that General Gordon has pronounced the people of Rich-mond county ruffians. Why should Statesman Walsh get down in the mud? We should be glad to see our friend rise to serener heights. THE Chronicle alludes to those who hissed and hooted General Gordon as "respected and honored citizens of Augusta." To say the least, this is a harmless exaggeration. THE Augusta Chronicle says: "General Gordon will realize today that Richmond is in the field." Alas! not in the field, but in the room out of which the majority of the democratic voters was crowded. "A GEORGIA preacher" in the Macon Telegraph, intimates that General Gordon is more infamous as a traitor than Benedict Arnold, It is only necessary to call the attention of the democratic people of Georgia to these attacks and slanders. They know how to dispose of

Just across the street, diagonally, from Helding felder's corner is an ancient watering place. stands right in the center of Fifth street. I have no idea it was called "Fifth" street in the times when that old well was dug. Sitting there on the shaded corner I watched the eager throng as they pressed around the moss covered brick curb, cap ped with plank and a venerable pump handle stretching out its welcoming arm above the whole. I accosted a man with hoary locks. "Is that wa ter good, sir?"

"Oh, yes. That is good water. I have lived in Macon fifty years, and I have never heard any one complain of that water."

"Fifty years is a long time. It is half a cen

"Yes, fifty years is a long, long, time, and I've known the old well fifty years," and he bowed hi venerable head and moved on.

A long while ago all this beautiful bluff, n called Wharf street, was a noble forest of oak hickory, beech, and other lordly trees. Sloping gradually downward was a piece of fertile land covered with forest trees and very little under growth. Here, on this slope, the Indians erected their wigwams, and speared the great white shad around Lover's Leap. At the foot of this slope was a deep valley where great magnolias and rough coated gum trees shut out the sunlight. There were clumps of cane, and dark pools where the scented bay tree grew, and muddy runs above which the whip-poor will and rain crow built their nests. But just at the head of this dell, where the highest overflow never reached, was a spring of bubbling water, clear as crystal and sweet to taste. Here the thirsty warrior bent to cool his parched throat. Here the bright eyed maiden filled her water pot, and the timid red deer risked his life to steal to this spot in the gray dawn of the morning for a draught of the cool and sparkling water.

By and by the Sabbath calm of the forest was disturbed by the harsh voices of an a ien race-s race that loved the sound of their own voices, and so, talked incessantly, so unlike the meditative race that preceded them. The still, small voice from the mighty laboratory of nature seldom smo upon their inattentive ears, and the spirits of the omber wood were offended and fled before their discordant clamorings. The red man turned his face to the westward and followed the setting sun, whose decline was so emblematic of his own fading glory. The waters of the spring were troubled, and the tender aquatic plants and the wood violets were crushed beneath the heavy tramping of many feet. One by one the lordly beeches, oaks and hickories disappeared from the hill the clearing spread along the slope and the virgin bowers of the wood that had never beheld the sunlight were laid pitilessly bare to the burning rays of the sum mer sun.

The faries peeped forth from the fern covered cliffs of Lover's Leap, and beheld with astonish ment a new sort of wigwam going up. One after another these new dwellings appeared, and th long days were filled with the bustle of business Louder and louder grew the hum until the last of he wood nymphs departed for a less noisy realm. "The water is good," said the bronzed and bleached pioneer, "and let us confine it and protect it as a legacy for our children and children

So the woodland dell was divested of its shade and the spring was deepened and some poards were placed around it, and the spring became a place of frequent resort. The veeds grew up in the little dell and were cut down, and the au tumn rains came, year after year, and a roadway was constructed along the glade to the ferry, and the buckskin-clad teamsters drank the water and smacked their lips and pronounced it excellent and so the steady wheels of time changed the face of nature and the appearance of the land. They called it Macon. A great many person are aware of that fact. Its fame was noised abroad, and quite a considerable town sprung into existence west of the river, and its elder sister, on the hills to the eastward, saw that there was a great gulf, broader far than the channel of the yellow river, forever fixed between them. Those who lived eastward were the more dignified, those who lived westward more energetic. It was the same old story. Aristocratic dignity opposed to plebelan energy, and the latter won, as is ever the case in such a contest. As the county site of a growing county, Macon must have a courthouse. A gener ous tract of land-for land was no object thenwas set aside for the courthouse, and one of its sides stretched across the head of our former wood and glade. This, of course, caused the glade to be widened into a street, and I goess they must have called it Broad street, for it is still the broadest street I ever saw. In the center was our spring, and the legacy of the pioneer was not lost A hotel was constructed on the corner, and the guests must have enjoyed many a cool drink from the well-for it was a well, now, with an old fashioned sweep. Hide and tallow merchants iquor dealers, barterers, cotton dealers, and a He brew with a miscellaneous stock of dry goods and notions, and a keg of rum on top in the rear, coined money by shrewd bargains with the rapidly in-creasing population of the country. I can see the dark-eyed maiden, with the pensive cast of feaso unlike her hooked-nosed parent, fill her bucket at the well, and turn with an arch and art ul glance to the two stalwart young farmers who had come for a draught of cool water to offset the effect of her father's rum. I can see the little knot of men that have gathered around the well to sample the contents of the big brown jug as they make up a horse race. Oh! the changeswonderous changes—that are wrought by the noiseless but ever revolving wheels of time.

The town grew apace. The oldfashioned well sweep was changed for a more modern rope and windlass. After a few years this was also changed to a wheel and two buckets, and people laughed and jested about the "pumpkin and wallet, and stone," of their worthy accestry. The old Jew grew old, and sold out, and took his fair daughter to a distant city. A new Jew reigned in his stead, but he enjoyed not the trade of his father Agariah. So he grew disgusted and threw up the picayune business and launched into larger enterprises. Where his predecessor handled a beaver pelt, he marked a bale of cotton, and his cotton skams floated down the river, and when the sun beat down with his fiercest rays, the boat men sighed, and longed for a draught of water from the well. The fame of the town spread abroad, and people began to speak of Macon as the central city. The center, geographically commercially, and otherwise. The city fathers sat in counsel, and after a heated debate, an adjournment and a called meeting and the usual clumsy working of the municipal machinery, an ordinance was passed establishing a number of pumps in the several streets for the convenience of the general public, and the old well was adorned with this moder machine for drawing water. This seems to have been the crowning event in the history of the well, for the city began to move further toward the west, the hotel ceased to be patronized, the street fell into a general decline, and only the old pump remain in its unadulterated purity as a constant protest against the many evidences of decline and decay. In the final allotment of names this street became Fifth, and the building of the city bridge . Ided the cognomen of Bridge Row, and the sale of the court house square changed the lay of the road, and every thing was turned round except the well.

Where it is simple and unpretentious as it is there is a bistory and mystery hovering around it that must ever be marvelously full of interest. Brown hands, grimy fingers and hands that were delicate and fair, have grasped the handle of the old pump. The innocent lips of childhood, the rum-parched throat of the reprobate, have allke been blessed by the cool waters. Men have come and gone, generations have been born, grew up and passed away, and still the old well re quench the thirst and cool the heated brow of the toilers who win bread by the sweat of their brows. Who knows the tragedies and comedies of They are all dead who saw the first curb placed there, and even those who witnessed the workings

DRIVEN TO DEATH.

The Farewell Words of the Montgomery Maiden Who Committed Suicide

from the Montgomery Dispatch. We publish the last letter written by Miss Farley, the young girl who died Monday and was buried yesterday afternoon. We make no comments on it, for it needs note. The people of this city well know the reason, and acknowledge the justice of its pub-

It is hard indeed that the bereaved heart parents, mourning over their dead child, should be wrung by such a public notice of their loved and lost, but as they cherished and loved her while living, so, in spite of pain, will they love and tect her memory when dead, so that before Him who giveth and taketh away they may answer for the human soul committed to their charge. The man or woman who can doubt the truth of these words, so pathetically written by so young a girl, with all the dread solemnities of death before her, must be beyond the range of conviction, and beyond the blessed influences of the humanity taught alike by Christ and reason.

Let her words be a lesson to those who speak whether from carelessness or malice, ill of other. Dear Papa and Mother—Before you receive this letter I will be dead—insensible to all heart aches. If you only knew how I long to be at rest. All the harsh and cruel accusations have stong me to the quick. If the world could only know how horrible slander is it would be slow to rob a girl of ner honor. My honor was my all. All your love, my darlings, though lavished on me failed to relieve my heart ache entirely. Not for one moment can I cease to think of it.

I fully realize the awful crime I am most falsely accused of. Such a heinous crime to accuse me of. I never had wile thoughts ever to enter my mind until I was accused of this awful sin. Mean low-minded people have taught me their own vile thoughts. The stung me to the quick. They have broken me down. I can never be the same light-hearted child I was. It is useless to think so even.

KNIGHTS OF THE GRIP.

Fourth Annual Convention of the Travelers' Protective Association. Invitations are out for the fourth annual convention of the Traveler's Protective association.

to be held in Baltimore, beginning June 28.

The association was organized June 24, 1882, and is today the largest association of commercial travelers in the world, with a membership in nearly every state in the union. Its objects are, briefly: To secure the repeal of all municipal and state laws which impose a license-tax on commercial travelers; to obtain recognition as a profession from railroads, and secure what they believe to be just concessions in regard to baggage transportation; to secure hotel accommodations commensurate with the prices paid, and to elevate be social and moral character of the members. In response to their request as a body, a bill for relief from license taxes is now before congress, with every probability of its becoming a law. The railroads of the country are many of them treating with them on an equitable business basis and the principal hotels are subscribing to every reasonable demand. elers in the world, with a membership in nearly

The membership has more than doubled in the last year, and posts and club rooms are established in nearly all large cities in the United States. They expect a membership at the time of the annual meeting of at least 45.000.

GORDON IN TERRELL.

THE GENERAL RECEIVED WITH OPEN ARMS.

Five Hundred People Meet General Gordon—Interesting Incidents of His Reception—Dr. Felton Alluded to—The Show of Hands in Favor of Gordon—Other Campaign News.

DAWSON, Ga., June 4.—[Special.]—The arrival here today of General Gordon, and his reception by the people, marks an epoch in the history of Dawson and Terrell county. When the general disembarked from the cars he was literally received in the arms of the people. A considerable time elapsed before he was released from the embraces of the old soldiers, many of whom positively wept at this momentary reunion with their old commander. The young men vied with the bronzed-faced veterans in their tender of enthusiastic welcome, and the march from the depot to the hotel was signaled by an ovation such as has heretofore rever been accorded any one in this portion of Georgia. A special feature of occasion was the presence large numbers of ladies on the pavements and in the balconles, whose demonstrative welcome to the great Georgian but intensified the general enthusiasm. AT THE COURT HOUSE,

At the court house he was introduced oan assembly of over six hundred people by Mr. Griggs, whose eloquent tribute to General Gordon was received with hearty applause. The appearance of General Gordon, in response to the introduction, was the signal for a storm of cheers, which was repeated again and again during the progress of his speech. He began with a glowing compliment to the ladies of Georgia, who were always right in their convictions. He expressed his regrets that his competitor was not here, and took occasion to pay him a high compliment for his ability and integrity, and said that he wished to state here, as he had stated on every platform, that if Bacon was nominated that no man would support him with more carnestness than himself. He said in this connection that he had been represented by the Bacon organs as threatening a holt in case Bacon was nominated. He was not at all surprised at this as it was as near the truth as they had been in the habit of getting in reference to him. He then admonished his hearers that if they wanted to reach the truth they must read the Bacon organs so as to make them mean exactly the reverse of what they stated.

PAYS HIS RESPECTS TO FELTON. to the introduction, was the signal for a storm

He then turned upon Mr. Felton, and in the most withering manner analyzed his position as a so-called democrat who had openly declared that he would not support the nominee of the convention, unless it happened to be the man of his choice. He reviewed the course of Dr. Felton is the past, and warned Georgians, particularly those of southwest Georgia, for whose preservation organization was absolutely vital, against the insidious, unfair and hypocritical postures of this new fledged organized democrat. This portion unfair and hypocritical postures of this new fledged organized democrat. This portion of the general's speech made a profound impression on all his listeners, especially when he declared that his own democracy ought to be called in question if he had the support of the man who of all Georgians had endeavored longest and most earnestly to destroy the democratic party whilst pretending to be a democrat.

pretending to be a democrat.

THE SHOW OF HANDS ALL RIGHT.

General Gordon also referred to the reason why Dr. Felton was so bitter against him, which was his canvass of the seventh district and the final defeat of Dr. Felton- Upon the conclusion of his speech General Gordon called for a showing of hands of those in favor of Mr. Bacon which developed precisely fifteen supporters. On a call for hands up for Gordon, fully five hundred responded amidst the wildest enthusiasm.

PROGRESS OF THE CAMPAIGN.

The Sandersville Herald has come to the clusion that "General Gordon is evidently the chaice of the people. Seven out of nine counties reported for Gordon yesterday, and his friends are nguine of success."

We call attention to these two facts, because THE CONSTITUTION, and its candidate have heretofore strenuously claimed that the voice of the people could not be heard in mass meetings.

If the recorder will recollect that these meetings were Bacon engagements; and that the usual cliques were defeated only by people leaving their plows while the grass was growing, it will see that the position of THE CONSTITUTION is unchanged. The Greensboro Herald says: The Greensboro Herald says:

As a Bacon paper and a friend of Major Bacon we must admit that the tenor of the meeting Tuesday was undoubtedly for Gordon. Had they so desired they easily could have forced the convention and made a nomination. It was their sense of fairness which caused them not to force the convention, and the friends of Major Bacon in the county who were hindered from being present will thank them for their fairness.

The Rome Courier is very conservative when it is to its advantage. It supports Bacon as well as the Clark county method. But when, as in the case of Polk county, the weight of the mass meeting seems to be on the other side, the Courier grows very tender towards primaries. If the Courier grows very tender towards primaries. If the Courier grows very tender towards primaries should be held all over the state, without regard to whom they served or hurt; that Bacon refused, under the subterfuge of leaving the question to the counties, though his real reason was his belief that he could make most out of the little court house meetings. The Courier's plan would seem to be, instead of having primaries all over the state, to have little mass-meetings, and whenever an unpleasant number of Gordon men were found to be present, then to come out and whine for a primary. Let the Courier bring its candidate down to the principle of holding primaries, and bot only where he can "make something" by it, but all over the state impartially, and then he will be on General Gordon's platform.

The supporters of General Gordon thought that it was called merely to elect a new executive committee, they to organize and elect their chairman and then the committee would appoint the time and manner of selecting delegates to the several conventions. After the committee was organized a resolution was offered that the meeting proceed to elect delegates to the gubernatorial and congressional conventions. The Gordon men opposed this and contended that it could not be done at that meeting as no notice of such action had been given. The Bacon men contended that the above notice was sufficient. The Gordon men would have preferred a primary election, but stated to the meeting that they were willing to leave it to a convention duly advertised. Mr. Spiers, who had the notice of meeting published, was called on to know what the meeting was intended for, and he there stated that it was merely to organize, as before stated, and said further, that he and Mr. Luke, another member of the committee, were all of the committee that were present when the notice was given and that as their chairman was dead (the Hon. R. S. Neal, chairman, died last year) he only/advertised to organize. Notwithstanding all this the Bacon men passed their resolution by a vote of 60 to 51, and appointed delegates instructed for Bacon.

organize. Notwithstanding all this the bacou men passed their resolution by a vote of 60 to 51, and appointed delegates instructed for Bacon.

It has been the custom in this county for the chairman of the executive committee to call a meeting to organize and appoint delegates to the gubern-torial and congressional conventions, but it was always advertised that these delegates would be appointed or elected at the meeting. I had no idea how the county stood as to Gordon and Bacon until this meeting; but I now believe that if Gordon could have had a fair show he would have carried it easily. The largest portion of men at the meeting was from that portion of the county through which the Georgia railroad runs, the other districts of the county being scarcely represented. General Gordon's supporters, when they found thatthe Bacon party had come to elect delegates that day, thought that the Bacon party would not force an election after hearing the statement of Meesrs. Spiers and Luke, the committeemen, and who were both Bacon men, as our county has been noted for fair dealing in such matters, and resorted to primary elections whenever asked to obtain the voice of the people. 'Several of the Bacon party voted with the Gordon party against the resolution forcing an election at that time, and pronounced it an outrage. I have endeavored to give a true statement of the precedings and hope you will publish it, as I believe the people should know it, and that a large majority will condemn it.

Yours truly, Geo W. Gray.

The above statement of the proceedings of the meeting of the democratic party of Columbia county are true.

It is the capital of the great state of Georgia. Some of our citizens have been visiting Atlanta for ten years in an official capaci-ty, and they have been watching your maneuvering and have not been well pleased with it. At our last February court a gentleman came up from Macon, and with his help the former officials organized a ring in the pleasant town of Cumming. It took the name of the Bacon ring. It was a small thing at the start, the Bacon ring. It was a small thing at the start, but it grew and spread itself like the green bay tree until it covered the county. It did not seem to have any symptom of typhoid about it. Then weeks past the Atlanta ring sent out a man with slow governor fever, and his case seemed hopeless. I proposed to the Bacon ring for us to meet ist Thursday in June, pass a resolution recommending a primary election. "No we shall carry out our plans," I then said: "give us a Gordon and a Baconi delegate and we would be satisfied." "Yes, you are begging the question. We then felt our case was deperate. Constitution: I am pleased to see the name of General John B. Gordon announced for governor of the grand old state of Georgia. You are going for the right man. The people of that state in making him their governor will be doing honor to one whom honor is justly due. The name of Gordon is dear to some of us here in this western country, and we are proud to think he will be Georgia's next governor. His war record is sufficient to convince every thinking man of his loyalty to duty. He never swerved from duty during those four years of conflict that tried men's souls. The last time I saw him was at the battle of the Wilderness, in Virginia, May 6, 1863, when he made that famous flank movement with three brigades of our forces, routing oue corps of General Grant's army, capturing a large number of prisoners, including two generals. I was permanently disabled in this engagement and after over two months suffering at Lynchburg, Va. I returned home to Georgia, and was released from milltary duty, losing the active use of that most useful member, (my light arm), but I am not ashamed of the sears or the cause for which I bore them. I am proud that I was in the gallant Gordon's command. The old veterans of the Virginia army who are here in Texas say hurrah for Gordon, Georgia's next governor, and they would be proud to vote for him for president of the United States.

THE VOICE OF RICHMOND COUNTY

While the Courthouse Estainers Hold Close Commun-ion with Themselves—No Room for "Common Farmers," and no Chance for them to Vote—Other News Notes, Etc., Etc.

AUGUSTA, Ga., June 4 .- [Special,]-The mass meeting of the democrats of Richmond county met today in the yard of the courthouse, with about one thousand people present. Charles H. Harper, the chairman of the democratic executive committee, called the CUMMING IN THE CHAIR.

After the order for the meeting by the executive committee was read, Jos. B. Cumming was unanimously elected chairman. He then arose, and thanked the meeting for the conspicu-ous honor placed on him in calling him to preside. He asked for the sincere co-operation of every man present, and that everything be done in honesty to both candidates. He then stated the object of the meeting, and said that we are all citizens of the same county, and we all would agree in our own welfare and do the right; that there was no room for passion nor heat, to keep cool and give every man his right; that a victory not fairly won was worse than defeat. Let us so conduct ourselves that no man could leave with dissatisfaction as to the right of what we did.

Colonel J. M. Graham was elected secretary, together with the reporters of the press.

WALSH PUT TO THE TEST. Hon. Pat Walsh then said: "Let us have a fair count and the honest voice of Richmond county for the selection of their chief magistrate." He then read a resolution in eulogy of Bacon, and nominated a large number of delegates to represent Richmond county, and moved that the election be held at once by the meeting.

Colonel C. C. Jones said that he did not want to interrupt the harmony of the meeting; that we had the supreme power of Richmond county present, and he wanted the free will of the whole people. Let the people give forth their full expression of choice, which cannot be done at this mass meeting. He then offered the following as a substitute to Mr. Walsh's motion, that a democratic primary election be held on the 25th of June, and that it be held as an ordinary election at the various wards and precincts, keeping the polls open all day, and that two friends of each candidate be at the box, and in that way declare what the voice of the county really is. AND HE SHOWS HIMSELF AERAID OF THE PEOPLE. Colonel Jones's amendment was voted down by the Bacon men.

Dr. Eugene Foster then moved that a ballot-box be opened in some convenient place in the courthouse, and be kept open until seven o'clock today, so that the mass meeting might vote by ballot and prevent all unfairness.

Colonel Tutt moved to lay this motion on the table, which cut off discussion of its merits, and the motion to lay on the table was carried by the votes of the Bacon men.

Mr.Wal:h's motion was then put to the meeting and adopted. His name was added to the list of delegates.
On motion of John S. Davidson, the present statehouse officers were recommended unanimously for re-election. The meeting then adjourned. THE FRAUD MADE PLAIN. While the county has gone for Bacon, and he seems to hold the majority, if it had been put to primary election then Gordon's strength would show itself and Bacon would have been defeated. Knowing this, the Bacon men voted down every motion for primary and ballot, and being in majority on the field, they carried things their own way, and have the vote una voce at the meeting. The only division was on Colonel Jones's resolution in regard to the the primaries, and was not a test of the strength of our party. At the vote there was so much confusion that not one-half the voters uaderstood what they were voting for, and it was no fair test. The manner of voting being very confusing, the voters going around in a

A Citizen of Macon Asks Some Pangent Questions. MACON, June 4, 1886.—Editors Constitu-tion: The Macon Telegraph, the Bacon-Macon ring organ, has always claimed to be "truly democratic," but I have iailed to see one line of editorial during the campaign where it has said that it would support the "democratic nominee." Telegraph has failed to support for some time the democratic nominee/of county, district, state, also United States, I would like it to come out and say that it will or will not support the nominee, no matter who he may be in this campaign.

There is no question of doubt as to the "democracy" of either Bacon or Gordon, but as there is as to the Telegraph, would it not be in order for it to let the people, the democrats, know whether they can count on the Telegraph supporting the democratic nominee or a "radical" opponent? I say radical, for an independent democrat means nothing else, and it looks to a man who has always been a democrat that the Telegraph is parading been a democrat that the Telegraph is parading the radical W. H. Felton through the state, pre-tendedly in the interest of Bacon. The people will find that the Hon. W. H. F. cares little for Mr.

Bacon, but is looking after his own interests.
Will the Telegraph say whether it will support the nominee, no matter who he maybe, that the "democracy" of the great state of Georgia may know whether it be a "democratic" or "republicant" or "republicant" or "seen the state of the great state of the can" organ?

COMMENCEMENT EXERCISES. Washington Seminary Commencement—Au Interesting Entertainment.

The closing exercises of the Washington Fe-male seminary, of which Mrs. Baylor Stewart is male seminary, of which Mrs. Baylor Stewart is pricipal, 'took place last evening. A most interesting programme had been prepared and its rendition was excellent. The music, both vocal and instrumental, was far above what is usually heard and the calisthenics were well nigh perfect. The school is in a flourishing condition, and reflects the greatest credit upon Mrs. Stewart as an instructor. The attendance during the past year has been greater even than usual, and the exercises last night showed to what extent the pupils had progressed. The following was the programme:

ATLANTA FEMALE INSTITUTE. Exercises of the Primary and Intermediate

Department at the Institute. The primary and intermediate department of the Atlanta Female institute gave their com-mencement exercises last evening. They took place in the institute hall, and were quite inter-taining. The music of the young ladies was espe-cially good. The duette by Misses Josie and An-nie Inman, was played in a finished man-ner, and gave evidence of thorough in-struction. In fact the entertainment was very good throughout. The programme was as follows:

A Printer's Error.

Sweet are the uses of adversity, the printer's copy said, but he set it up, sweet are the uses of advertising. Sweet, indeed, to those who in sickness and suffering have seen the advertisement of some sovereign remedy, which upon trial has brought them from death's door.
"The best thing I ever saw in my paper was the advertisement of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery," is again and again the testimony of those who have been healed by it of lung disease, bronchial affections, tumors ulcers, liver complaints and the ills to which flesh is heir.

The stables formerly occupied by W. D, Sandwich & Co., Ivy street, are now under charge sandwich & Co., Try street, are now inder charge of Mr. Ed. #### WILBOR'S COMPOUND OF PURE COD LIVER OIL AND LIME.

The Advantage of this Compound Over the plain Oil is, that the nauscating taste of the Oil is removed, and the whole rendered palatable. The offensive taste of the Oil has long acted as a great objection to its use; but in this form the trouble is entirely obviated. A host of certificates might be given hereto testify to the excellence and success of "Wilbor's Cod-Liver Oil and Lime;" but the fact that it is regularly prescribed by the medical faculty is sufficient. Sold by A. B. Wilbor, Chemist, Boston, and all druggists.

NEW YORK, June 4—C. L. Green '& Co., in their reporton cotton futures today, say: The absence of encouraging reports and confirmation of a better crop showing caused the market to open weak and led to a further shading of '@3 points. The bulls then came in and forced a reaction to about last evening's prices, but failed to stimulate a renewal of the demand, and the market went out rather slow without much apparent natural strength. slow without much apparent natural strength. THE CHICAGO MARKET.

Features of the Speculative Movement in Grain and Produce.

Special to The Constitution.

CHICAGO, June 4—The price of wheat for July delivery rose again today to the highest figures touched yesterday, 79%c, but broke off to 78%c, and closed at about that figure about 100 clock and again at 2:30, showing a net gain over the latest figures of yesterday of 1/3c. The excitement in the pit was not so marked as on the previous two days. Still, there was considerable animation throughout the entire day, with fluctuations very frequent and rapid. Foreign advices were unfavorable, quoting dull and lower markets. The market opened 1/400 Mg higher, ruled easier for a time, and then advanced 1/2 c with numerous fluctuations, declined 1/4c, rallied 1/4c, declined 5/4c and closed about 1/4c higher than on yesterday. The market closed without noticeable change in the afternoon.

The feeling was easy in corn, owing to fine weather for the growing crop and good receipts.
The closing was a shade lower than on yesterday. Oats firm and higher. The new crop advanced Met'sc, due to reports of dry weather.

There was an active trade in provisions, and prices ruled higher.

ATLANTA-MEMPHIS-BASEBALL GAME IN DETAIL UNDER THE OPERA HOUSE,

HE WAS RELEASED.—Inspector Booth yesterday received a telegram from Rodgersville, Alabama, stating that J. R. McGwier, the postmaster at that place, who had been arrested by Inspector Boykin, had been released, there not being sufficient evidence to convict.

THE MEETING POSTPONED .- The meeting of the directors of the Young Men's library a sociation which was to have occurred last night was poetponed until next Wednesday afternoon at five o'clock when the body will meet in the directors' hall in the building.

CONVICT CAMP ABOLISHED. - Principal Keeper of the Penitentiary John R. Towers has ordered the convict camp at Graysville to be broken up. This camp originally had twenty convicts, but the number is now only ten. It is not the policy of the principal keeper to maintain camps so small.

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS .- The silver wedding TWENTY-FIVE YEARS.—The silver wedding anniversary reception of Captain and Mrs. Evan P. Howell will be celebrated tonight at their home in West End from eight until twelve ciolek. The West End street car line will run extra trips for the occasion, cars leaving West End after the reception.

A Broken Arm.—Ed Morris, a thirteen-year old boy whose home is on Glynn street rear the big bottom, broke his left arm yes-terday afternoon. Morris was playing ball with a party of friends near his home and in running slipped and fell. The fall resulted in the fracture of his left arm below the elbow. The fracture is a bad one.

The fracture is a bad one.

CROP REPORTS.—Recent reports received at the department of agriculture show that the cotton crop is likely to be poor. A bad stand has been obtained, resulting from defective seed and the beating spring rains. Other crops, excepting wheat, are very good. Peaches in some sections of the state are beginning to fall off, but, as a rule, the fruit crop is good.

UNITED STATES COUET.—James Wells, of Dawson county, plead guilty to working in an illicit distillery. Sentence suspended. Thomas Minion, a resident of Dawson county. was found guilty of illicit removing and concealing, and sentenced to three months' imprisonment and $200. James Dryman was sentenced to three months' imprisonment and a fine of $200.

THE COLORED BASE BALL.—The colored base ball association of the south which has just been formed in Jacksonville will open the season on the ninth instant, the Eclipse nine of Memphis in Atlanta. The games will be played at Athletic park on the 9th, 10th and 11th. The Atlanta nine is said to be a strong 11th. The Atlanta nine is said to be a strong one, and the battery, Thompson and Hill, have a reputation all over the south.

MAIMED SOLDIERS .- Captain W. H. Harri-MAIMED SOLDIERS—Captain W. H. Harrisson, clerk in the executive office, is preparing an alphabetical list of all maimed ex-confederate soldiers entitled to receive payment on account of lost limbs. The list will be printed and copies farnished to all of the ordinaries in the state, in order to prevent the perpetration of frauds by evil disposed persons. The next payment to maimed soldiers will be made in September.

She is Suffering.—Maria Fain, the negro woman who was so seriously knifed two or three days ago by John Bellinger, is suffering very much The wound is badly inflamed and requires a constant application of cold cloths. The limb is badly swollen, too, and the attending physician is not thoroughly satisfied with the progress his patient is making. Bellinger, in default of the bond, has been sent to jail.

GORDON DELEGATES .- Elsewhere is printed GORDON DELEGATES.—Elsewhere is printed a list of delegates who, if elected, will support General John B. Gordon in the gubernatorial convention. In some quarters there is an impression that it will be necessary to register in order to vote in the primary election. Tais is a mistake. No qualification will be necessary except those enumerated in the resolutions adopted by the county democratic executive committee, which will be found printed with the list of delegates. the list of delegates.

HE CONTINUES TO IMPROVE.—Andy Hammond, the negro boy who was knocked on the head by Wash Turner, at Beatie's stock-pen, on Tuesday last, is much bettea. He rested picely all day westerday and was sleeping. micely all day yesterday, and was sleeping well at three o'clock this morning. The wound is a painful one, and Hammond is constantly complaining of intense soreness in the back of his head several inches below the wound. Hammond's attending physicians are well pleased with his improvement, but are not positive of his recovery.

REV. J. G. Armstron,—A large audience greeted Dr. J. G. Armstrong at the courthouse last evening. The distinguished orator chose for his subject: "Whither is this spirit of the age carrying us." He handled his subject in a masterly manner, and his hearers were charmed. Frequently he was greeted with applause. He spoke for nearly an hour, and during the entire time was listened to with rapt attention. Dr. Armstrong holds a high place in the hearts of his admirers, and the lecture association feel pleased with the outlook.

HE BROKE HIS LEG.—Frank Merritt, a blacksmith, who lives at 92 Pine street, broke his left leg yesterday by falling from the front verandah in front of his house. Mr. Merritt had just returned from his shop, and after eating supper sat down on the railing around the verandah. His wife was sitting in a chair near him. They were talking pleasantly when Mr. Merritt suddenly and without any apparent cause lost his balance and fell off. The fall was about eight feet, and in striking the ground Mr. Merritt's left leg was under his body. The fall was a hard one, and resulted in a fracture of the leg, just above the ankle. Dr. Wade rendered the necessary attention.

Who He Is.—The negro man who died on the Air-Line train near Greensboro, N. C., was not J. H. Towns, but F. M. Maylid. He was employed as a porter on some road running into the city, and was taken sick about two weeks ago. During his illness he was paid $6 per week, the amount allowed by the lodge of which he was a member. He was a friend to Towns, who is employed at Holmes's shoe shop, and when he left he called on Towns for his address, which was given him on the back of one of Holmes's business cards and which was found on his person. The deceased lived at 518 McDaniel street, Raleigh, N. C., and was on his way home when he died.

HER HAND TERRIBLY LACERATED.—Gertrude McClellan, an operative at the Fulton county spinning mill, had her right hand badly mashed in the machinery yesterday. Miss McClellan was cleaning off the frames at which she was working, and by accident ran her hand in too far. In an instant the machinery had caught the fingers and was drawing the hand and arm in, when some one who was standing by quickly threw the belt which gave the machinery its motion. When the machinery stopped the young lady's hand was taken out. The fingers were badly lacerated and the hand considerably mashed. The physicians who were called in attempted to save the entire hand, but the probabilities are strong that two fingers will have to come off. Miss McClellan was only twelve years of age. She lives on the factory grounds.

ATHENS' GOOD FORTUNE.

SHE GAINS THE COVINGTON AND MACON RAILROAD.

Mersrs. W. B. Thomas and A. H. Hodgson in New York to Consummate the Contracts—Georgia Midland Connections—Effect Upon Rail-roads Now in Operation, Etc., Etc.

The prospects of Athens as a railroad center are brightening. Thursday, at 5 o'clock, Messrs. W. B. Thoms and A. H. Hodgson, of that city, went to New York via the Northeastern railroad and the Piedmont Air-Line, to consummate contracts by which they will obtain for Athens the northern terminus of the Covington and Macon railroad. These gentlemen went to New York by invitation of the builders of the Covington and Macon, carrying with them positive assurances that the road would terminate at

It was originally intended that the northern terminus of the road should be at a point on the Atlanta and Charlotte division of the Piedmont Air-Line, near Gainesville, It is not clear what inducements have led to the change. As it is the intention of the builders of the road to extend it south from Macon so as to connect with the Plant system of Florida railroads, it will be seen that Athens will be greatly the gainer. But the good fortune of Athens does not stop with this. Messrs. Thomas and Hodgson also carried to New York positive assurances that the Georgia Midland railroad would connect with the Covington and Macon at some point south of Atlanta. This connection will virtually give Athens both roads.

It is known that an alliance has been formed between the Covington and Macon and the Savannah, Dublin, and Western railroad, and it is understood that the Georgia Midland will be admitted to the compact. By this arrange-ment, Athens really becomes the northern ter-ment, Athens really becomes the northern terminus of three important trunk lines, which pass through inviting territories.

A WELL INFORMED RAILROAD MAN said to a CONSTITUTION reporter yesterday that the construction of the Covington and Macon, the Savannah, Dublin and Westero, and the Georgia Midland, would necessitate the reconstruction of the railroad map of Georgia

"Not only that," he continued, "but it will necessitate the formation of a number of new combinations. These roads will cut into the territory of the Central and East Tennessee, Virginia, and Georgia railroads, and will take away a large part of their patronage. Just observe the situation a moment: The Cov-ingion and Macon will compete with both roads for all northern patronage and a good roads for all northern patronage and a good share of western patronage. From Macon the Covington and Macon, I understand, will be extended to Florida. That will make more competition for the East Tennessee, Virginia and Georgia railroad. From the same city, the Savannah, Florida and Dub.in will push out to Savannah and Americus, competing with the Central railroad at the two most important centers of its travitors. the two most important centers of its territory.

The Georgia Midland will compete with the Central at Columbus and Griffin, and it will also disturb the business of the Atlanta and West Point. Viewed from any standpoint, the center color of these three roads will break up present railroad alignments."

What effect will the Augusta and Chattaneoga railroad have?"

"It will make competition for the Georgia railroad, for the East Tennessee, Virginia and Georgia railroad, and for the Western and Atlantic railroad. Whenever that road is completed there will be music in the air from the roads now in operation."

among the directors and chief officials of at least one of the leading railroads of Georgia have disturbed railroad circles in Atlanta for several months. These disagreements, it is said, have resulted from differences as to the policy to be pursued in view of the construction of new competing lines. At one time the disagreements almost caused the resignation of a president. According to the rumors, certain a president. According to the rumors, certain directors proposed that a more liberal policy should be pursued towards Atlanta, and, perhaps, other Georgia cities. Certain other directors and the president objected. A dead lock resulted, which will probably continue until an annual election of directors takes

In speaking of this dead lock, the railroad man already quoted, said:

"If the new roads now being constructed were to terminate in Atlanta, she would, of course, be greatly benefitted. But every one of them will run around her. What the effect will be, I am not prepared to say."

"Will not the proposed line to the sea pre-

"Will not the proposed line to the sea prevent serious consequences?"
"I think it will. I have thought that such consequences could be avoided by building lines to connect with the new roads. Atlanta could easily do this, because such lines need not be long. The plan would cause less experse than building a line to the sea. One thing is certain: Atlanta needs to be on the thing is certain: Atlanta needs to be on the alert, ready to act promptly for her interests."
It is expected that the Covington and Macon will be completed to Athens this year, and that a considerable portion of both the Savannah, Dublin and Western and the Georgia Midland will also be completed.

It is generally believed that Ford will be found guilty or a mistrial will be made.

The evidence showed that he had sold to one T. B. Henderson, of Birmingham, Alabama, the right for Georgia for the sale of a patent window ventilator, and that he was to receive one thousand dollars. Twenty dollars cash was paid and one silver watch and a bill of sale given to one mule and wagon. It was claimed that Henderson agreed to come to Atlanta within thirty days and pay Ford the balance of the money or sign the proper notes. Ford claimed that he came to Atlanta and went to B. E. Henderson, a brother who had the mule and wagon in charge, and that he was told that they were in the country at a Mr. Pace's at Smyrna, hired out for $30 a year. Ford went to Pace's and aked for the mule and wagon, and as he had it hired for the year was not disposed to give it up. Ford gave Pace $5 to pay the expense of sending the outfit to Atlanta. The parties were to meet at A. McD. Wilson's and arrange matters. Ford invited Peddy, the young man who brought in the mule and wagon, to go down to the Gate City hotel and take dinner with him, and while Peddy was eating the outfit was spirited away. Ford contracted with Miller & Brady to take charge, and after a few days Mr. J. W. McConnell bought the mule for $75. Ford made him a bill of sale. Ford skipped out and was arrested in St. Louis. eech in Favor of Himself and Against

Dr. W. H. Felton delivered a speech on the issues of the gubernatorial campaign at De-Give's opera house last night.

A full estimate of the number of persons that heard the speech is six hundred and fifty, of whom four-fifths were supporters of General Gordon. Good order was maintained, Dr. Felton heing given a quiet and respectful hear. Felton being given a quiet and respectful hearing. On the stage sat Judge Henry B. Major Bacon. Judge Tompkins introduced the speaker.

Dr. Felton's speech was a rehash of that delivered by him at Montezums. He began by declaring that he would support Major Bacon, should he be nominated, but that he would not support General Gordon under any circumstances. He announced that just now, preceding the nominating convention, he was an organized democrat; but he would not say what he would be after the convention. He then proceeded to heap upon 'General Gordon a mountain of bitter abuse. There was no enthusiasm and the applause, except when a joke was told, was subdued and short-lived. The heartiest applause was when, in a moment of forgetfulness, Dr. Felton allowed himself to pay General Gordon a compliment.

ment of forgetfulness, Dr. Felton allowed himself to pay General Gordon a compliment.

The most noticeable thing about the speech was its evident intention to make capital for the speaker. He repeatedly declared that as between General Gordon and Major Bacon he preferred the latter; but he also declared that Major Bacon's record was not as good as he could wish. Many in the audience declared that the speech impressed them as being against both General Gordon and Major Bacon, and very much in ravor of Dr. Felton. Even some of the gentlemen on the stage appeared chagrined at many of the speaker's utterances.

There was no evidence that the speech accomplished any good for Major Bacon. What cheering was done at its conclusion was for Dr. Felton and General Gordon, Major Bacon's name being unmentioned. The supporters of General Gordon were decidedly pleased with

The rooms now occupied by the club are most deligntfully situated, and reflect great credit upon the young gentlemen who selected them. Three mew members were added to the club, and a fourth was proposed, but was debarred, because, it is alleged, that he is a professional. His case will be looked into and reported at the next meeting.
The club is in a flourishing condition. A communication was received from the managers of Ponce De Leon springs offering to construct an asphalt race and practice track of two-thirds of a misting provided the club would give races and exhibition thereon at stated intervals. The also proposed to offer medals as an incentive. A committee was appointed to wait on the gentlemen, also on Mr. Sidney Root, from whom a letter was read in regard to the improvement proposed by the park commissioners of Grant park for the benefit of the club.

The club will make a short run Sunday morning, starling at 8 6 clock there.

AT ROLL CALL.

AND THE STORIES THE PATROLMEN

Claims That It was Stolen—The Watch Found and an Arrest Made—A Good Joke on Colonel Thomas, the Legislator. "It is a darned shame to treat an old man that way, and that too when he's drunk," said old man Bailey last night about 10 o'clock on the top of Castleberry hill. It was Patroman Cunningham to whom the old man was talking.

About 10 o'clock the patrolman was crossing the hill on his way to the rear of the first ward, and was stopped by the old man who was in the midst of a small crowd. The old mas was quite full of liquer and was out of sorts. In a few words he stated to the patrolman that he had hem rabbed. quite full of liquer and was out of sorts. In a few words he stated to the patrolman that he had been robbed, and asked for the arrest of the persons who had robbed him. Bailey's condition was not calculated to carry a conviction of his statement with it, and the patrolman was in the act of passing on, when some one in the crowd confirmed his declaration. Then the patrolman gave Bailey an undivided attention. Bailey asserted that he had been drinking with a young man named Cole, and another young fellow whose name he did not know, and that after he became tight they had led him off and robbed him of his watch. He did not appear to mind the loss of the watch much, but felt decidedly aggrieved because the two men had taken advantage of his drunken condition to rob him. After hearingthe old man's statement Patrolman Cunningham telephoned statement Patrolman Cunningham telephoned his information to police headquarters, and Officer Harris, of the mounted department, was sent out to investigate the matter more was sent out to investigate the matter more fully and if possible arrest the parties. The officer soon acquired all the facts in the case, and then started out to find the men against whom Bailey had complained. He found no trouble in securing Cole, in whose possession he found the watch. Cole was arrested, and when he found himself under arrest he admitted that he had taken the watch but asserted most positively that he had taken it culy for the nurrose of teasing tha taken it only for the purpose of teasing the old man whom he claimed to know well. Cole was locked up in a cell and the watch deposited in the station house keeper's safe to await the result of the case.

The Colonel Took the Wrong Cow.
Colonel Thomas, one of Fulton county's representatives, had a lively but friendly experience with the police department yesterday. A few days ago the colonel purchased a perience with the police department yester-day. A few days ago the colonel purchased a cow from a lady residing on Formwalt street, and yesterday morning with a boy, whom he had hired, he went for the cow. The colonel was not too well acquainted in the locality, but managed to find a cow in a lot which he drove away. This was about ten o'clock. About eleven c'clock, Mrs. Tim Murphy, who resides on Formwalt street near Jones street, sent a messenger to police headquarters asking for an officer at once. Mounted Officer Thompson responded to the call and to him Mrs. Murphy stated that her cow, a valuable animal, had just disappeared from her lot, and that the slight investigation she had made induced her to believe that two men had driven her away. The officer began looking into the matter and had little trouble in tracing her to Beatie's stock yard, where he learned that Colonel Thomas had let her there. Up to that time Officer Thompson thought that the cow had been stelen, but the statement that Colonel Thomas left her at the stock pen that the cow had been stolen, but the statement that Colonel Thomas left her at the stock pen put a change upon his theory and he at once began a search for Colonel Thomas, whom he found. When asked about the cow, Colonel Thomassaid he had purchased her, but when he was informed that Mrs. Murphy claimed the cow the colonel began an investigation. The investigation showed the colonel that he had account when Mrs. Murphy we want to have the statement of the colonel colonel that he had account when Mrs. Murphy we want to have it is not seen as the colonel colonel that he had account when Mrs. Murphy we want to have it is not seen as the colonel colonel that he had account when Mrs. Murphy we want to be seen as the colonel colonel that he had account when Mrs. Murphy we want to be seen as the colonel that he had account to the colonel colonel that he had account to the colonel colonel that he had account to the colonel colonel colonel that he had account to the colonel co investigation showed the colonel that he had entered Mrs. Murphy's yard, thinking it was the home of the lady from whom he had purchased a cow and consequently had driven away the wrong cow. When Colonel Thomas discovered the mistake he had made he enjoyed a hearty laugh and drove Mrs. Murphy's cow back and got the right one.

He Is Succeeding With the Case.

Detective Joyner, who has been working industriously on the diamond theft at Mr. Hardin's residence, on Ellis street, ever since Hardin's residence, on Ellis street, ever since it occurred, yesterday made a ten strike. Since ascertaining that a negro boy had made an attempt to sell one of the rings, he has been searching for the boy. Late last night he ran upon a boy answering the description given by the gentleman to whom the boy had tried to sell the ring. The boy at first denied knowing anything about the attempt to sell the ring, but finally admitted that he know the boy who attempted to make the sale. The detective locked the boy up, and this morning, after a night in a close, warm cell he may be after a night in a close, warm cell he may be in a better condition to talk. The boy gave his name as Rad Ware. He is about eleven years of age, and is booked as a suspect.

A Hackman and Two Cases. Frank Whitaker, a public hack driver, will appear in police court this morning to answer two charges. Yesterday Whitaker left his two horse carriage standing on Line street, and the horse took fright and ran off. They ran down Pryor street to Wall and then attempted to run into the union pass then attempted to run into the union passenger depot but were stopped by Patrolmen Holland and Martin, by whom a case was made against Whitaker. The running created quite an excitement. Whitaker is quite a reckless driver and on the third drove so rapidly through the streets that another case was booked against him for that.

The Case Postponed a Day. Mr. Milton Reid's case was not disposed o Mr. Milton Reid's case was not disposed of in police court yesterday morning. Mr. Reid was on hand ready for trial, but Willis asked for a continuance on the grounds that he had important witnesses whom he could not secure until tomorrow. The case was continued until this morning. Mr. Reid says that he was perfectly justifiable in the assault he made upon the negro, and his intimate friends to whom he has talked about the matter, hear him out in his assartion.

ATLANTA WINS,

Though It Takes Thirteen Innings to Decide the Game in Memphis. The Atlantas added another scalp to their belt yesterday, but came very near losing her own in the desperate effort to capture Memphis. It required thirteen innings to settle the fight. It required thitteen innings to settle the fight.

The hall under the operahouse, where the game was received in detail, was crowded. The crowd seemed to realize that Atlanta had a hard struggle on hand, but the prevailing impression was that she would win. When Memphis was presented with a goose egg in the first, and gave Atlanta one run, the Atlanta stock went up, but when Memphis scored her three in the sixth inning the crowd weakened. However, when Atlanta sent two men across the home plate in the seventh inning and tied the game, faith was restored and was not shaken when Memphis added one in the tenth, in which finning Atlanta again tied the game.

The playing was fine on both sides, and those who were present were more than satisfied with it. Purcell, Cline, Lyons, Moore and Stricker added to the already great confidence Atlanta has in them, while Couway went away up in the estimation of the home folk. Atlanta now thinks that Conway is the greatest pitcher in the south. Up to the ninth inning only two hits had been made off him.

Atlanta's Victory in Memphis,

MEMPHIS, Tenn., June 4 .- [Special.]-There were 1,800 people present this afternoon to witness the first game played here between Atlanta and Mcmphis. Both clubs had in what is considered their strongest battery, and for six immngs it was a ontest between the pitchers, with the honors about evenly divided. Atlanta scored in the first inning on a passed ball. Memphis made three in the seventh inning, principally on errors of the visitors. Atlanta tied the score in the ninth inn-ing by a lucky bunching of hits and a muffed fly by Mansell, which really lost the game for the home club. Each club made one run in the tenth inning, and Atlanta finally won in the thirteenth McSorley, of the St. Louis Browns, has been signed by Memphis, and will arrive from St. Louis tomorrow morning.

DETAILS OF THE GAME.

In the first inning Sneed flew out to left: Mansell took first on balls and was thrown out at second; Andrews took first on balls and stole second: Broughton made first on Mappes's pass of third strike, and was thrown out at second. Cline took first on balls and stole second; Purcell hit to short and out at first; Cline on third; Moore struck out; Cline scored on a passed ball; Lyons hit to pitcher sed out at first.

Nashville Defeats Chattanooga

NASHVILLE, Tenn., June 4 .- [Special.] -chattanoga put Foley in the box today, but when ashville made eight runs in the first inning Kent was put in, and he held Nashville down so that the final score was only 10 to 5. Baker began pitching for Nashville, but the home club saw that t didn't need Baker to win with and put O'Brien in after the fifth inning. Not a hit was made of O'Brien. Nashville is now confident of taking four traights.

Umpire Hengle in yesterday's game called twenty-nine strikes against the Atlantas, and only eight against Memphis. How's that?
There will be an amateur game at Atheite park this afternoon between some wholesale boys. There will be some sliding done.
Augusta has signed another pitcher called Conway. The Atlanta Conway is doing such great work that Augusta thought she would try one by the same name.

RESCUED FROM THE GRAVE.

FIVE POINTS, JONES Co., GA., May 29,'86. THE SWIFT SPECIFIC Co., Atlanta, Ga.

Gentlemen-My wife for many years was afflicted with a blood disease which baffled the most skillful treatment, and finally resulted in a very large ulcerated and ugly-looking running sore on one of her limbs, which had been growing larger and larger for the last four years, discharging quantities of pus or matter, and was so rapidly undermining her health that I almost despaired of effecting a cure. I tried every known remedy such as the sarsaparilla and potash mixtures and prescriptions of the best physicians, with no benefit in any way. A few months ago my attention was called to S. S. S. (SWIFT'S SPECIFIC). I procured some of this medicine, which she began to take, and in a short time increased in flesh and strength, and the sore, which was then larger than my hand and reached to the bone, began to heal. After continuing its use a few weeks, she regained her health and spirits, and the sore was entirely healed. She had been in such a terrible condition for years, and was so near death's door at the time she commenced the S. S. S. that I refrained from making the facts known to the public; though knowing or being satisfied that she was cured, I feared the disease might return; but as it has now been three months since she stopped using the medicine, and is in perfect health, being able to walk several miles without feeling unusual fatigue, and attends to household duties as she did before she was so afflicted, I publicly make this statement for the benefit of all who are afflicted as was my Very Respectfully, wife.
